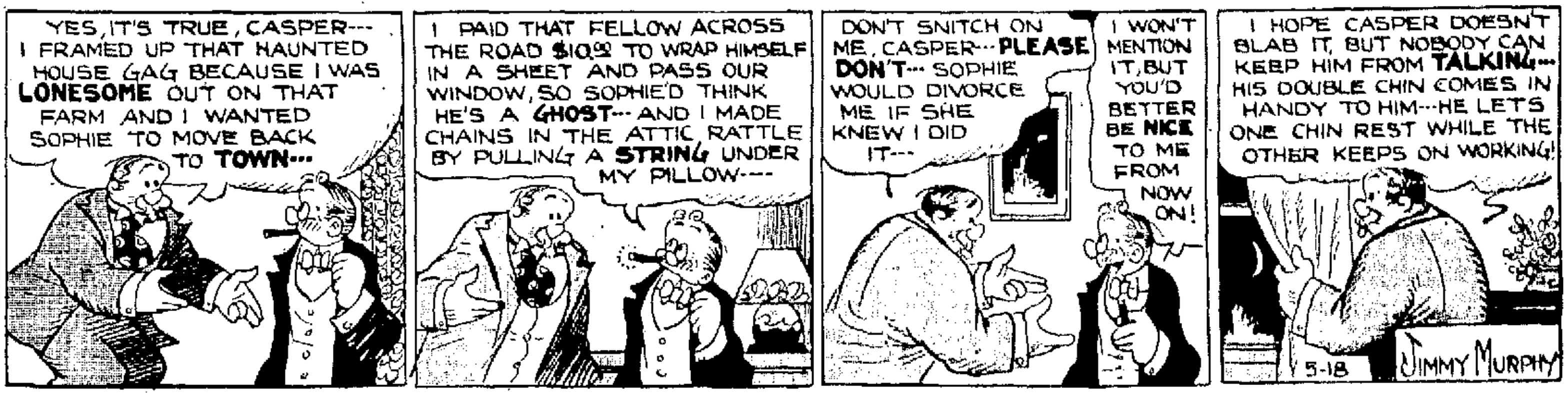
TOOTS AND CASPER

BY JIMMY MURPHY



YES, IT'S TRUE, CASPER--- I FRAMED UP THAT HAUNTED HOUSE GAG BECAUSE I WAS LONESOME OUT ON THAT FARM AND I WANTED SOPHIE TO MOVE BACK TO TOWN---
I PAID THAT FELLOW ACROSS THE ROAD $10.00 TO WRAP HIMSELF IN A SHEET AND PASS OUR WINDOW, SO SOPHIE'D THINK HE'S A GHOST--- AND I MADE CHAINS IN THE ATTIC RATTLE BY PULLING A STRING UNDER MY PILLOW---
DON'T SNITCH ON ME, CASPER--- PLEASE DON'T--- SOPHIE WOULD DIVORCE ME IF SHE KNEW I DID IT---
I WON'T MENTION IT, BUT YOU'D BETTER BE NICE TO ME FROM NOW ON!
I HOPE CASPER DOESN'T BLAB IT, BUT NOBODY CAN KEEP HIM FROM TALKING--- HIS DOUBLE CHIN COMES IN HANDY TO HIM---HE LETS ONE CHIN REST WHILE THE OTHER KEEPS ON WORKING!

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Whooping Cough

CONTRARY TO common belief whooping cough is not a disease that should be regarded lightly. It is a real menace to health. When it afflicts very young children it often leads to serious complications such as broncho-pneumonia, pneumonia and influenza.

A new vaccine has been developed which appears to confer immunity or protection against whooping cough. I am glad to say that this vaccine has been successfully used in various sections and is gaining the approval of the medical profession.

The vaccine grants immunity within three to four months after the treatments are given. There are required three separate injections at weekly intervals. The first time an injection is used in each arm. There is an increase in the amount of the substance with each subsequent injection until a total of eight cubic centimeters has been given.

The treatment is painless and involves no danger. The arm may become somewhat swollen and tender and there may be slight fever but these symptoms entirely disappear within 24 hours.

It is a good plan to protect the children from whooping cough. This is particularly advisable if they live in a community where the disease is prevalent.

The germ of whooping cough sets up trouble in the lining of the throat and windpipe where it causes [illegible] and swelling and irritation. Mucus accumulates and interferes with normal breathing. This leads to spasm of violent coughing. If [illegible] a child suffering from the paroxysms of whooping cough [illegible] with me that it is indeed a pitiful sight.

[illegible] that the ailment is [illegible] and is quickly spread from one individual to another.

Abundant fresh air and sunshine are extremely beneficial. Food should be simple but highly nutritious and readily digestible. [illegible] the child should be confined to bed. Follow carefully the instructions and advice of the doctor.

Queen Helen Starts Trip In Quest of Tennis Crown

BY RUSSELL NEWLAND

Copyright by The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Helen Wills Moody was headed back to the scene of former triumphs today, apparently bent on again ascending the heights she once ruled as queen of the tennis world.

England was her destination. Her object, an expected comeback attempt on the courts of Wimbledon.

"I cannot say definitely I will play, but if I feel as well as I do now, I will," said the former tennis champion, who was forced from the courts two years ago by a back injury.

A trunk full of tennis clothes and new rackets bespoke confidence Mrs. Moody did not herself express that she would find it not at all impracticable to resume her place in international competition.

Complete secrecy surrounded Mrs. Moody's intentions until a few hours before her departure last night. "I just made up my mind this afternoon," she said. But back of that statement lies the story of six weeks of hard practice which apparently convinced her that she had indeed recovered from the injury that forced her to default to Helen Jacobs in the finals of the national championships two years ago.

Observers, too, have been convinced of Mrs. Moody's return to form. In practice she seemingly has been hitting the ball with all the terrific power of her competitive prime and in addition has developed what [illegible] Kinsey, former intercollegiate star, termed "a fine placement."

DRIVE TO HALT AUTO THEFTS

Trio Sentenced for Stealing Parts as City and County Join in Campaign

ALL GIVEN THREE MONTHS

Seldom Used Statute Employed To Make Penalties More Severe

[illegible]

All Plead Guilty

[illegible] Judge William P Mailin [illegible] them to three month terms in Columbus workhouse and ordered them to pay costs of prosecution.

Those sentenced are Joe Dickerson 22 and Ernest Osborn 20 both of north of Caledonia who admitted they took parts from the automobile of C W Dalton of north of Caledonia May 9 and Ralph LeRoy Detwiler 20 of 31 Davis street who admitted taking an air horn from the automobile of Mrs Emma Ferguson of 11 Cherry street last Feb 13.

The seldom used statute under which the trio was prosecuted provides penalties of three to six months in the jail or workhouse or fines of $100 to $500. Had they been prosecuted on charges of petit larceny, as many previous cases have been handled the penalty would have been a 30 day sentence or a $200 fine or both. Prosecuting Attorney Paul D Michel who filed charges against the Caledonia offenders said. The charge against Detwiler was drawn by Police Prosecutor Z P Davis.

Policy for Future

Both asserted the more severe charge will be used in future cases of thefts of articles from automobiles in an effort to break up one of the most widespread forms of petty thievery.

Records of police and the sheriff's office list many instances in recent years in which automobiles have been stolen driven to side roads and stripped of virtually all removable parts. Scores of other thefts in which one or more articles were taken from parked automobiles have been reported.

Dickerson and Osborn were arrested Thursday by Deputy Gene Gelsaler after he had tracked them more than a quarter of a mile across fields toward the home of one. Detwiler was arrested by city police.

HARDING HI-Y TEAM WINNER OF RELAY

distanced his rivals to give Robert Lavien a big start at Uncapher avenue.

Legs in City

Half mile distances near the city were from near the Sawyer farm to Uncapher avenue from Uncapher to Olney avenue from Olney to Prospect street at Bellefontaine and from Prospect across Hill street along South Main to the courthouse.

Both Harding and Edison Hi-Y runners got away to a slow start in Green Camp finishing the first half mile behind the Four Square runner Caprino.

Several runners were forced to pull iron men stunts running two legs for a total distance of one mile. A runner would finish his first race get a ride with his teammates to the next starting position and then take the second half mile grind.

The race grew close as the runners neared the city limits. George Counts of the Harding Hi-Y team piled up a good lead which he turned over to Junior Danner at Uncapher avenue. Danner maintained the lead in Olney avenue while Quentin Walker took the baton ahead of William Scott Edison runner [illegible] Walker between Olney and Prospect but failed to maintain the lead at the end of the half mile stretch.

is the son of Mr and Mrs Frank R Cahill and a seventh grade pupil at Vernon Heights. The trophy will be awarded to Cahill and his school at an assembly program soon. Thomas A Edison school now has the cup won for the last two years by Ernest Davis.

Two winners of elimination tournaments last Tuesday failed to appear for the finals yesterday afternoon resulting in 10 participants for the championship. Alfred Witter of Greenwood school and Robert Patrick of Forest Lawn did not take part in the event.

Four boys competed in each of the first two trials and two in the third. Berridge had little trouble in winning his preliminary with seven successful shots. Earl Emerson representing Thomas A Edison defending school had bad luck with his shooting. He was able to knock but two marbles from the ring. Edward Baker of Central Junior High scored three marbles and Robert Bergrun of Pearl Street school hit one.

Two Tied

Forest McDaniel of Olney Avenue school and Jesse Lucas of Mark Street school were tied behind Moore in their qualifying round with three marbles each. Thomas Young of Oak Street school knocked two from the ring.

Cahill the winner was forced to win on the seventh marble before taking his preliminary from Elmer Snyder of George Washington who trailed with six.

Hubert Gerrlich and Harold Callahan students at Harding High school acted as officials. Nearly one hundred youngsters and adults witnessed the finals.

Competing around a ring 10 feet in diameter the finalists placed 13 marbles on a cross in the center of the ring with three inches between each marble. Competitors could choose their shooting position but were forced to keep one knuckle on the ground at all times.

Players were allowed to shoot as long as they hit a marble from the ring. Yesterday's high run was three scored by Cahill in the final round and by Berridge in the preliminary.

ROOSEVELT TO READ VETO NOTE IN PERSON

1 That he would [illegible] to the bill

2 That the language would be as strong as possible

3 That he hoped it would be sustained

The last point was stressed more than once as if in reply to rumors that the administration was indifferent about the fate of the bill after it was vetoed.

Signed by Garner

The bill which had been passed by both houses of congress reached the White House shortly before the press conference. The last formality on The Hill had been completed earlier in the day as Vice President Garner wielding four pens so he could satisfy the requests of memento collectors signed the measure.

It requires a two-thirds vote of both houses to override a veto. Administration leaders still predict that the house will roll up the two thirds though expressing a belief that the President's action would swing some votes to the Roosevelt banner.

Speaker Byrns said I doubt whether anything could change the stand of a majority of house members on the bonus. My belief is that it will pass.

Thus the big test would come in the senate as previously predicted on all sides.

ASSEMBLY'S SCHOOL ARGUMENTS STILL ON

member of the house finance committee voted to recommend the other school issue sponsored by Sen John Davis Democrat of Cuyahoga. Previously he had voted no.

When the house returns it will be confronted with 18 bills including the state employes retirement system proposal and the Leaver Mahoning canal measure. The others are of minor character.

The rules committee in arranging the calendar announced that Gov Davey's state government reorganization bill was not among those to be acted on.

Several prominent Democratic members contend that the reorganization plan which would grant the governor exclusive powers in all state departments will never be brought to a vote.

A few hours before the house went home Gov Davey affixed his signature to 13 bills enacted by the general assembly and said he would veto the drivers license bill. A statement on the veto is expected today.

To Outlaw Marathons

Walkathons marathons and all similar forms of amusement will be outlawed and drivers who figure in accidents must show responsibility for accident judgments under statutes which the executive signed into law. The responsibility bill was a companion measure to the drivers license act.

The house also authorized an investigation by a special committee into the alleged use of [illegible] for construction of Lake [illegible] county. The lake is a [illegible] project.

WHY THE WAR TALK?

Germany Sees in Memel and Austria Tinder Boxes of Possible Warfare

Last of a series of five articles.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN May 18 Anxious eyes [illegible] two directions [illegible] mentioned. One glance is in the direction of Lithuania where [illegible] the tinder box that may set the European house afire. The other is in the direction of Austria where Nazis and anti Nazis are engaged in a struggle for power.

The two countries alone could hardly cause Germany anxiety. With an army admittedly consisting of more than 400,000 trained men and with an air fleet which according to Hitler's word to Sir John Simon is the equal of Great Britain's German could easily win the argument in an armed dispute with either Lithuania or Austria.

What worries the Germans is that behind Lithuania according to a firm German conviction stands the Soviet Union and behind Austria at least Italy.

Russia Feared

Soviet Russia has ever been anathema to the Hitler regime. While the governments preceding Hitler had little love for the neighbor to the east at least official relations were correct and commercial relations even became close.

It was logical that affairs with the Soviets should cool when a political party the National Socialist which had as one of its most powerful slogans Down with Bolshevism took charge of the reich.

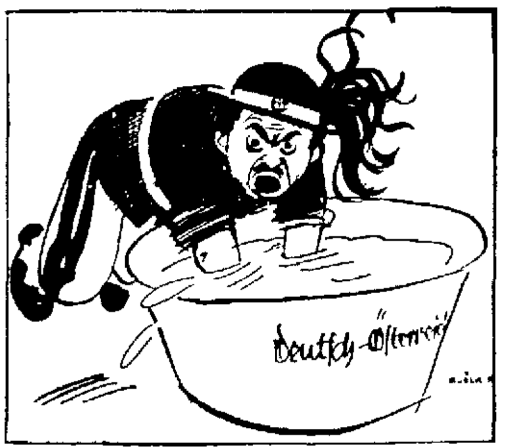
I fear Russia as an ally more than I fear France as an enemy. Hitler is reported to have said to Sir John Simon when the English foreign minister was in Berlin.

Convinced Italy May Strike

As regards Austria Hitler knows from the tenor of the Stresa conference if he did not know it before that the three great powers there assembled are unanimous in opposing any interference by Germany in the affairs of Austria.

Whether France or Great Britain would act in the event of another interference in Austria by Germany or Germans as they believe was the case in connection with the Dollfuss murder is open to question.

From all accounts it appears that Mussolini and Hitler who at the beginning of the Nazi regime exchanged such cordial messages have come to hate each other. Rightly or wrongly the Wilhelmstrasse is convinced that Italy will pounce upon Germany on the slightest pretext. The [illegible] office



A sarcastic Non Intervention was the caption over this cartoon when it was published in "Das Schwarze Korps" the official organ of Hitler's elite black shirted body of picked Nazi storm troopers. The basin is labeled German Austria and shows Italian fascism up to its elbows in the Austrian situation. Below the caricature were the words Curses Let no one interfere with my interventions. The cartoon was aimed at Italian French proposals for a multilateral pact among Austria's neighbors pledging non-intervention in that country's affairs.

even [illegible] Italy is [illegible] Lithuania.

Seen from Germany then Soviet Russia looms as the first great possible enemy because communism and nationalism are like fire and water and one must seek to annihilate the other. Italy is the second potential enemy [illegible] belief is current here that [illegible] who sees Southern Tyrol slipping from him if nazism spread is only waiting for a chance to get into a mix up with Germany.

To protect herself against possible attack but also to regain respect as one of the great powers of the world Germany through Hitler has embarked upon a gigantic program of rearming.

MEMEL NAZIS ELUDE DEATH IN LITHUANIA

President Commutes Sentences After Demonstration on German Border

By The Associated Press

KAUNAS Lithuania May 18— President Antanas Smetona today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences of four Memel Nazis condemned by a Lithuanian court for plotting the return of the Memel territory to the reich.

The president himself took the initiative in commuting the death verdicts after the four defendants had refused to appeal for clemency. Their lawyers had asked mercy but legally the request was invalid as it did not bear the signatures of the condemned men.

Today's decree provided that the men would lose their citizenship and that their property would be confiscated. They will be confined in Kaunas jail. The 83 other prisoners similarly charged who were recently sentenced to terms of imprisonment of from 6 months to 18 years will be transferred to provincial prisons.

The Memel territory police today were reinforced by border patrolmen to discourage any possible anti government demonstrations. Strong forces of police patrolled the Kaunas streets and double guards were mounted at the prison gates.

Earlier at Koenigsberg Germany 10,000 aroused citizens marched in front of the Lithuanian consulate in protest against the sentences. The Germans [illegible] Lithuanian banner. Police maintained order as the crowds [illegible] for the liberation of the condemned Nazis.

ANNOYING BIRD FALLS VICTIM OF SLINGSHOT

Boy Downs Noisy Woodpecker After Police Sharpshooter Fails to Hit.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO May 18 A mantle of soothing peace lay on Pleasance today. Stilled was the hideous rattat-tat which for three days [illegible] has plagued [illegible] with the neighbors slumbers. Adolphus the drain pipe drumming woodpecker is dead.

Among those whose sleep had been stopped at dawn by Adolphus unfailing reveille was eleven year old Franklin Phillips scion of the Mervyn C Phillips family. It was Franklin who brought peace to the neighborhood after the best marksmen of the Chicago police department had failed. Franklin did it with his little slingshot.

For three springs at the same hour each morning Adolphus has perched on the copper drain pipe of the Phillips home and with gusto and self appreciation tapped out ear splitting compositions. Sleep ended when Adolphus began. After every other method of driving the bird away proved futile Mr Phillips called the police. She was recovering from pneumonia and wanted some rest.

For three mornings Sergt Raymond (Deadeye) Mulligan popped away at Adolphus with a B B gun. Adolphus dignity was only slightly ruffled and his feathers not at all. Yesterday Mulligan departed vowing to get Adolphus today.

But Franklin saved him the trouble.

Franklin found Adolphus in a nearby tree. Franklin armed his slingshot. Clunk. And that was the end of Adolphus.

Borderline Christians

A SERMONETTE

By REV JAMES O DODD

Pastor the Central Christian Church

Read Numbers, 32 1-5.

[illegible] of Reuben and Gad [illegible] Moses [illegible] Jordan [illegible] a lesson for today of [illegible] importance There ought to be a border line between the church and the world that is [illegible] defined [illegible] as [illegible] separated Canaan from [illegible] borderline [illegible]

[illegible] where was the best place for [illegible] where was the best place for the cattle [illegible] who [illegible] with their [illegible] those who are interested more in securing temporal than spiritual advantages Our tendency is to confine religion to the sphere of the [illegible] and [illegible] it from everyday life [illegible] therefore [illegible] to the glory of God

In view of such teachings we [illegible] religion

[illegible] like Reuben and Gad the borderline Christian is satisfied with a partial conquest of spiritual foes These two tribes had done some faithful fighting for God [illegible] and had practically helped to clear the land of foes but they were satisfied with this and wanted to sit down and take things easy

A great many people start well in the Christian life and conquer some foes and overcome [illegible] faults but quit when the work is only begun The Bible ideal of a Christian is a new creature not the same old creature with a new name and a new dress

[illegible] of God

[illegible] Moses was displeased [illegible]

[illegible] placed their membership with a [illegible] church

[illegible] to carry on a [illegible]

In the [illegible] place these borderline [illegible] Reuben and Gad separated from [illegible] the Jordan were the first [illegible] captured [illegible]

Word comes to the minister — somebody off the track Who [illegible] No [illegible] the [illegible] but the [illegible]

God pity the borderliner The person who expects to get to heaven on some one else's faith One who is willing to let someone else do all the work and make all the sacrifices and then want to share in all the blessing One has more respect for an out and out sinner

Remember Peter complaining about the things Jesus had him to do and what would happen to John? Jesus replied to Peter [illegible] What is that to thee? Follow thou me

SYNOPSIS

[illegible] the fact is that Guy W[illegible] Alison [illegible] reputation is [illegible] fathers fiancee [illegible] making [illegible] something [illegible] Alison realizes that her stepmother is her enemy now she is [illegible] fighting against the [illegible]

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

The Snake

CONSIDERING it was raining cats and dogs and the nearest inn was six miles off said Allison he could hardly take us there in the middle of the night without luggage could he? And I was far too frightened to want to stop in the house alone [illegible] as long as no one saw you both I don't suppose it matters [illegible] said Mrs Sumers lightly You didn't get any visitors?

Hardly at that hour of night! I was thinking of the morning said Mrs Sumers patiently I've had a woman coming in to clean

She didn't come that morning said Alison brusquely

Well that's all right I'm looking forward to meeting the knight errant By the way Bob if you're asking him to lunch could we just run through our engagements together The Harveys have asked me to dine and I'm not sure whether I'm free

Alison stood up

I think if you don't mind I'll just go and take that aspirin she [illegible]

As he turned to close the door behind her she could see her father move to the arm of Daphne's chair Alison shut the door quickly

Up in her own room gay with [illegible] chintzes she sat down [illegible] window [illegible] She could not did not even want to cry She felt as though all feeling had been frozen out of her [illegible] leaving only a cold blank despair Many times on her journey [illegible] she had [illegible] her fathers fiancee would be like but never even in the [illegible] had she dreamed of anything as bad as this

But there was nothing to be done [illegible] tell her father that [illegible] woman [illegible] untruthful [illegible] a gold digger

I don't suppose he'd believe me if I did she concluded After all I could [illegible] him all the [illegible] Daphne kept hugging him [illegible] Well I'm not going [illegible] like that I'll clear out [illegible] that's all

She remembered with a warm [illegible] her lunch with [illegible]

[illegible] One can feel that He [illegible] a rotten time or [illegible] losing his [illegible] one can feel that he [illegible] life to be [illegible] faces up to things and [illegible]

Presently she slipped quietly from [illegible] down [illegible] Books [illegible] the walls [illegible] read them [illegible] Hobbs [illegible] his reading [illegible] was inherited

On a low shelf Alison found a large square book [illegible] with [illegible] back [illegible] own room

In the drawing room [illegible] she had left Daphne [illegible] talk [illegible]

[illegible] really thought [illegible] way in which she did not even see the dangers that she'd run was quite too wonderful You know Bob most girls nowadays are so hard boiled They'd have realized at once that to spend a night alone with a man like that was simply—well But you could see at once that the idea had never crossed her mind—dear innocent

Alison knows a lot for her age demurred Robert More than you'd think You see she's always acted as hostess here since she was quite little and met my friends and talked and read anything she liked and so on

Mrs Sumers pinched his ear

I know darling but you're a bit of an innocent yourself

An old thing like me? He was looking down into her dark eyes which half narrowed caressed his

You're not to call yourself that To me at least you're young—almost as young as she is You make me feel old Bob Old and worldly wise Life hasn't been kind enough to protect me

It's going to be now Don't worry

I know it is I know Bob I don't only love you but I feel so—so grateful too I thank Providence all day long for letting us meet I can't bear the thought of losing you

You're never going to he began but he cut the end of that sentence with a kiss

I know We're really one person aren't we? That's why I'm going to say something that perhaps I shouldn't

What? I've never [illegible] that grew like yours Daphne all those fascinating little curls

She laughed softly

No You mustn't tangle my hair I want to talk to you Go and sit over there

He obeyed as he had obeyed her ever since she first enchanted him six weeks before when he had met in the expensive hotel at Nice where Mrs Sumer taking a long planned holiday had found herself in terrible straits all her savings stolen by a swindle an hotel bill owing and in a foreign land

By mere chance Robert over hearing her distracted explanation to the manager came to the rescue a lucky chance for him as he said

You look awfully solemn he [illegible]

I am I'm being serious It's about Alison

What about her?

The woman by the fire did not miss that faint [illegible] in his voice and [illegible] the girl upstairs Her own voice assumed the low [illegible] which she used when she [illegible] the soft pedal She approached her point from an angle

You see never having had a child of my own I feel this perhaps the most wonderful part about this [illegible] gained [illegible] yourself [illegible] but a child of my own too I know she doesn't feel like that yet [illegible] she [illegible] She can't help being jealous [illegible] Children are And she doesn't understand yet that I don't want to take you away from her [illegible] to love me [illegible]

My dear [illegible] said Robert fondly She was always [illegible] a reserved [illegible] thing Wait [illegible] friends

That's just what I want to do—to wait patiently until she realizes that I'm just aching to [illegible] But in the meanwhile Bob I'm just [illegible] frightened

No no Dear child Of course [illegible]

Of Alison

[illegible]

[illegible] But now now that she's com ing out and growing up well you'll have to be careful Bob Careful? He was genuinely puzzled What about?

Daphne Sumers smiled there was superior wisdom in that smile it was almost motherly

You don't realize dear she's a very pretty girl and when she's dressed and so on she'll be prettier still And when you add the fact that she's got all that money coming to her—

She won't have an ill I'm dead put in Robert quickly

I know I mean from the point of view of the fortune hunter that's all It's not as if she depended on your leaving it to her by will Bob it's her mothers money isn't it? You've only a life interest

For a brief second Daphne's eyes slanted up at him keenly noting his nod Yes? Then don't you see she urged it must go to her in the end mustn't it? And not even in trust You know in a way I call it almost wicked to leave money like that to a young girl It's—it's asking for trouble—and she's too unsophisticated and fresh to see it even if you told her

My dear you don't know the number of crooks there are in this world But a woman like myself alone and poor can't avoid them I've met dozens of men who'd think nothing of marrying that child and making her miserable for the sake of her money

Monday Daphne continues her attempt to blacken Guy Western

Two Years of AAA

The [illegible] of AAA [illegible] a [illegible] of grateful farmers [illegible] AAA with [illegible] must they [illegible] its comparatively good [illegible] is one of the two principal foundations of the recovery program.

The [illegible] relief program was transmitted to congress one week after inauguration day in 1933. It was enacted May 12, which makes it now two years old and still [illegible] of the recent demonstration [illegible] be [illegible] face value.

AAA was [illegible] An unprecedented condition, President Roosevelt pointed out, called for trial of a new plan. He promised that "If a fair [illegible] trial [illegible] and it does not produce the hoped for results I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

The President has neither acknowledged nor advised. AAA has weathered two years and is getting off to a third year without serious opposition. Its primary object was an increase of farm prices which has taken place whether because of AAA or drouth does not matter. In the spring of 1933 the index number of farm prices stood at 55 with 100 representing the pre-war average. The index of goods purchased by farmers stood at 101. Now the latter index has risen to 125 thanks largely to NRA, but the index of farm prices has risen to 111, 87 per cent of parity, compared with 54 per cent two years ago.

Obviously AAA has opponents. Unlike NRA, however, it has many active friends who are willing to defend it. Even Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who is its handiest target, has come through two years of experience [illegible] confident that his organization [illegible] it.

Stop, Look, Listen

Most rail[illegible] grade [illegible] reasonably safe. [illegible] crossing peril, but [illegible] adequate protection [illegible] probably 9 per cent of all railroad crossings.

Such a statement can be contested, of course. It will be contested bitterly by persons who have been visualizing elimination of all railroad grade crossings, an impossible undertaking.

One authority who estimates $30,000 to $40,000 as the average cost of eliminating grade crossings says more than $9,000,000,000 would be required to eliminate all of them. On the other hand 5 per cent could be eliminated for half a billion.

A railroad executive remarked recently he could reduce accident hazard at crossings on his railroad [illegible] per cent by eliminating only 5 per cent of the crossings. The relationship [illegible] All automobile drivers realize there are relatively few crossings where the [illegible] are unusual. Most crossings of that type are notorious.

They should be eliminated. High speed automobile traffic and [illegible] do not go together [illegible] inevitable. The amount of the [illegible] will be determined by [illegible] available. [illegible] students will be [illegible]

Dissenting Voice

[illegible] of [illegible] President [illegible]

When Sen[illegible] Monday night [illegible] natural [illegible] was [illegible]

Mr. Morgenthau [illegible] interested Mr. Mills probably [illegible] lated what [illegible] States [illegible] under the guidance of [illegible] Mr. Mills was [illegible] of the points in the M[illegible] After all he knows as m[illegible] dollar as Mr. Morgenthau [illegible]

His reply is inclined toward the technical

[illegible] that

The Wrong Slogan

[illegible]

It would [illegible] $5,000 in terms of [illegible] talks [illegible] contrary, the nation's income [illegible] divided equally among [illegible] persons would have represented [illegible] divided among gainful workers it would have meant $1,700 apiece.

That would not be enough to appeal to even a [illegible]. Probably $2,500 a year is the minimum amount which would be attractive, though Sen. Long uses $5,000 in his appeals. The problem therefore is to see that some reasonable minimum is reached. That of course is a problem which has nothing to do with wealth sharing or income sharing but with [illegible] of national prosperity which will produce wealth enough to go around. Its attainment is the objective of all the government's efforts.

Calculated by families, one-fourth of the country's income units in 1929 received less than $1,000 and nearly half received less than $1,500. Almost two-thirds of the income recipients at the bottom of the scale with incomes of under $2,000 received in the aggregate about 28 per cent of the national income while the same percentage of income went to one-fiftieth of the income recipients at the top of the scale who received $10,000 or more. Income equalization has no place in the hands of Huey Long. It is too important. By muddling the problem with untruths and impossibilities he and his kind are delaying what they claim to be demanding.

An Unfriendly Motive

Every time the supreme court of the United States makes a split decision with the balance depending on one vote there is a temptation to change the rules. That's natural enough. Close decisions are hard to take whether they come in law or baseball.

As early as 1823 a bill requiring concurrence of five of the seven judges then constituting the supreme court before federal legislation could be invalidated was reported from the senate judiciary committee. More than 10 years ago Sen. Borah proposed legislation requiring at least seven of the nine justices to concur. Sen. LaFollette in his campaign for the presidency in 1924 advocated congressional power to reenact legislation rejected by the court. The idea of hamstringing the court is not new.

It is frequently forgotten that the supreme court's power depends more upon confidence in its integrity than upon specific regulations governing its functions. The Constitution does not define explicitly any procedure for review of congressional legislation. Practice as initiated by Chief Justice Marshall has determined the court's present power.

The motive for proposing a change at the present time must be viewed suspiciously by those who regard the supreme court as the only available agency which can interpret new deal legislation in constitutional terms. Clearly the purpose is to make it impossible for the court's existing membership to strike any kind of balance between a liberal and a conservative philosophy. Requiring a two-thirds majority of the court before legislation could be invalidated would be equivalent to changing the rules to fit a particular problem. Later it might be deemed necessary to change them back again to fit another problem. The whole idea is at variance with popular confidence in the supreme court's integrity.

Beware the Boom

Maj. [illegible] B. Angus [illegible] of Britain's [illegible] financial wise men has made a statement which recalls a prophecy of the early days of the depression. The United States is so close to its problems he points out that it cannot see they are gradually dissolving. [illegible]

When the [illegible] started and before [illegible] was predicted that the [illegible] psychology of hard times would prevent Americans from realizing things were [illegible] until long after the trend [illegible] was obvious [illegible] it was a good prediction.

Convalescence is a [illegible] period. The [illegible] despondent [illegible] let it be followed by [illegible] relapse. [illegible] predicts [illegible] American [illegible] late [illegible] Beware the [illegible] the way we are [illegible]

I should say 60 per cent of residents own their homes and automobiles. Its three sturdy banks have gone through the depression without a buckle. [illegible] businesses have changed hands. Like [illegible] the cluck and suck of the Ohio [illegible] upsweep of levee it just keeps rolling along. So far as I know it never indulges [illegible] of those worldly flourishes that [illegible] peaceful [illegible] and makes it ridiculously [illegible]. It has the serene sense of permanence of its surrounding hills.

I always resent the implication that small towns are viciously cruel with gossip. I have breasted the billows of Broadway's swollen and professional libel too long and I have heard more reputations torn to tatters in a single evening at Dinty Moore's, Lindy's [illegible] than in all my time in a small town. More often the small town is guileless in shielding its unworthy. The natural beat of its heart is kindly, protecting, forgiving.

So Gallipolis is symbolical to me of that pocket of calm the scientist tells us is the tornado's vortex. With the world in furious churn it has remained as placid as the exquisite stillness of its summer evenings. At least that is the picture my retina retains. To go back and find that was not so would be a wrench. The end of the last illusion.

Such a gesture they have indulged toward me in inviting me back, however, proves the friendly currents are still running strong. Of course I could not think of returning in the false role of the conqueror with flags waving and bands playing. Although I confess in those sleepless stretches that come now and again the idea is tempting. I have stepped from several imaginary trains, twice even a great big airplane—to clasp the hands of Judge Cherrington, Frank Vance, Dr. Holzer, Harry Maddy, Hollis Johnston, A. K. Merriman and others of an equally imaginary reception committee. And rolled away sitting high and unbared on the back seat of the automobile blowing kisses and smiling coyly through showers of confetti. You know, like the returning air heroes in the news reels.

But one look at me as a hero would prostrate the populace with laughter. I'd prefer to slip into town quietly some night when everybody but perhaps the night watch was deep in sleep and next morning take up life where I left off as though I'd never been away. I'd enjoy helping Harold Wetherholt and Earl Mauck get out the day's edition of the Tribune. Maybe submit a nostalgic editorial for things I miss. Make a round trip on the ferryboat Champion. Jog up the levee on the tail of Bob Mitchell's dray. Drop over to the Lafayette—a new hotel since I was there named for the great French general who once tarried on the site—for lunch with Jack Halliday and other Court streeters.

The first sundown I'd like to sit at the top of Academy hill listening to the obligato of crickets, watch dusk sift its mantle of grey over the old swimmin' hole, hear the lowing of cattle [illegible] night's first scatter of stars and perhaps choke up a little.—(Copyright 1935 McNaught Syndicate.)

Behind The News In Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 18—The [illegible] upon congress. At this time of year, near the end of the session, both houses begin acting queerly. The natural processes of legislation give way to covert backstage bartering of bill for bill, amendment for amendment. Dire rumors and predictions fill the air in a confusing din.

The only thing for a hopeful public to do is to close its eyes and ears and hope. Usually the originally planned course of legislation works out about 80 per cent as expected.

Veracity

This year things are a little crazier than usual. As an example the rumor went around that President Roosevelt would not bear down on Democratic senators to support his veto of the inflationary Patman bill, thereby secretly inviting them to make it a law over his veto. This was somewhat angrily denied at the White House.

The fact of the matter seems to have been that some of Mr. Roosevelt's friends put out a feeler in the senate along that line possibly without consulting him. The result was a flurry of confusion in which the touchy question of veracity became involved.

Fishing

A better example may be found in what happened in connection with Mr. Roosevelt's fishing trip with congressional leaders. The White House announced emphatically that the bonus was not discussed nor was any legislative business mentioned throughout the trip.

Yet some of those who went along returned to the capital and informed their Republican pals privately that Mr. Roosevelt had read portions of a proposed bonus message to them. They even went so far as to say Republicans would have a hard time voting against the President in view of arguments he expected to make.

The publication of these reports aroused the White House to further emphatic denial. Again the question was who should be believed, if anyone.

NRA

The situation of the NRA bill is a case in point. Senators wrangled for months about it, refusing to agree on anything. Their experience indicated some of them would rather lay down their lives than permit its continuance. Yet a few days ago the senate passed an authorization continuing it for 10 months without any discussion whatever and without a record vote.

Tricky administration leaders slipped out the word that the house would stand by President Roosevelt and continue it for two years. Thus the issue would be put up to the senate again in a peculiar way, so the senate would have [illegible] it eventually to the President for a two-year case.

Then the administration leader Pat Harrison announced he would not be a party to slipping anything like that over on the senate. Those behind Harrison insisted he may have had his fingers crossed at the time. But the point is the condition of Washington affairs is developing to a point where truth [illegible] be of use.

Politics

One explanation for all this is that Washington has been teeming underneath with politics to an extent usually reserved for presidential campaign years. In fact, the campaign of 1936 has opened a year ahead of time.

Opposition forces have tended lately to [illegible] keep the new deal on trial constantly and the new dealers are fighting back. The job against the administration is being done not [illegible] by [illegible] as Long, Coughlin [illegible] American [illegible] League [illegible] Chamber of Commerce [illegible]

Wise politicians in [illegible] camps believe [illegible] reached [illegible]

Wreckage

Hidden away in [illegible] settlement are some provisions which virtually wreck the auto labor board. The board chairman, Leo Wolman, has been out of town during the strike. In his absence the labor department fixed up a settlement which may permit Mr. Wolman to take a permanent vacation.

Hereafter grievances of discharged workmen will be settled directly between the employes and the companies. This takes away the main business of the board. Furthermore, the agreement says that seniority rules will also be agreed upon directly without intervention by the board.

On top of this A. F. of L. locals in several auto plants have served notice that if the Wolman board tries to call an election among the men to choose bargaining representatives they will call their men out again.

Notes

The first thing Frank Walker did in his new relief superintending job was to frame the six relief principles laid down by Mr. Roosevelt in his message to congress. This frame is kept on Walker's desk.

No estimates have yet been made about the rate of spending the new relief money. The President has ordered the treasury to receive advance estimates and prepare a periodical (probably weekly) check on the flow of funds, but no spending scheme has been worked out yet.

One of Postmaster General Farley's friends has been dropped by the NRA from his code authority job. The dropping was called a resignation, but it wasn't. Violations of the code in his section are supposed to have been behind it. The NRA conveniently forgot to notify Farley of its action.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, May 18—The Wagner labor bill argument is coming to a head within the next few weeks. New York opponents are divided into three camps. A few still want a flat showdown—give labor nothing. But a majority believe the strike menace in many industries is getting really dangerous and reluctantly agree that some sort of legislative sop to labor is necessary.

Some of those who feel this way still balk at the Wagner bill. Their idea is to substitute a more specific section on collective bargaining in the house bill renewing NRA. The trouble is that organized labor wouldn't go for this with any enthusiasm and it would undoubtedly take strong White House pressure to get [illegible] to accept it instead of the Wagner measure. The President's new attitude on the Wagner bill makes this unlikely. Many industrialists doubt that [illegible] colleagues' earnest backstage efforts in this direction will get anywhere.

A third group—comprising a number of influential business men—favor a solution which may surprise you. They are quite prepared to swallow the Wagner bill without protest provided it is modified to incorporate certain features of the British trade dispute act. This particularly [illegible] transplanted which would give labor organizations more legal responsibility for their acts and which [illegible] sympathetic strikes. A strike to force a compromise along these lines will replace the blanket condemnation of the Wagner bill which industry in general has [illegible] to date.

Allegiance

Behind this change of front is the growing realization [illegible] that radical elements are [illegible] rapid headway among the [illegible] moderate labor [illegible] the Wagner bill [illegible] would be preferable [illegible]

[illegible] The trouble [illegible] to leftist leaders. The interference of Secretary Perkins in this [illegible] hasn't helped. Her policy has been to ignore infractions of the bargaining [illegible] the unions made and [illegible] anything in the nature of a showdown with the radicals.

The rift between the Federation of Labor officials and their own [illegible] unions also reflects the growth of the leftist trend. Thousands of workers are wavering uncertain which leadership to follow. There are plenty of fireworks in sight unless their allegiance can be recaptured by the Federation chiefs. Passage of the Wagner bill properly played up as an A. F. of L. victory—might turn the trick.

Gains

Astute New Yorkers predict that one of the finest series of compromises ever seen in Washington will soon be under way. They figure the Mahomet Roosevelt will have to go a long way toward the congressional mountain to get constructive action on his legislative program.

This applies particularly to the AAA amendments and the extension of NRA. The real problem for the President is to give ground without seeming to do so—this enabling him to follow the old Army custom of describing a general retreat by the phrase "we are consolidating our gains."

Wedges

With the senate committee on interstate commerce voting 14 to 2 to report the public utility holding company bill it is predicted by administration friends that the bill will pass practically without change. The necessary holding companies will be protected, they say, and unnecessary ones will be bled out by 1940 exactly as Roosevelt [illegible]

This bill is included in the list which [illegible] describe as the [illegible] collection—bills that [illegible] be licked at all cost. They [illegible] to lose unless a combination [illegible] formed by filibusters [illegible] that will actually paralyze all pending bills. Such a combination has not been formed—yet. If Roosevelt can drive wedges among the filibusters he can get his bills through even if some of their tail feathers are missing.

Future

Insiders hear that United Gas—a subsidiary of Electric Bond & Share—is planning a $17,000,000 bond issue.

The money would be used to repay [illegible] $21,000,000 in bank loans due next year and [illegible] $55,000,000 owed to the parent company. There was no special [illegible] about repayment of the latter—but Electric Bond & Share will undoubtedly be glad to get the dough.

There will be no difficulty about marketing. The creditor in the family will probably be glad to take the bonds in payment of its share of the debt [illegible]

While [illegible] is far too early to pick [illegible] winners there is little danger [illegible] predicting that the [illegible] rooters will have plenty to say as to the team climbing into the circuit lead. Shoemaker kept three hits scattered while Weiss of Pleasant allowed only two hits in his defeat. Five errors by teammates kept him from better luck with the Erie team.

Six Teams Even

Erie scored its run on two errors and a sacrifice in the third inning, Lusch crossing the plate. The first Erie blow was a triple in the fourth by Pohler and the second a single by Holliday in the sixth. Weiss gained two of Pleasant's three hits.

After the smoke had cleared from Commercial League encounters last night six teams were found with an even split on two games, the Erie team with a perfect record and the Centennial Coal aggregation still awaiting its first victory.

The Westinghouse Cubs took a close game from the K of P 3 to 1 at the Steam Shovel field. The K of P club was forced to start the game with eight men and the Cubs took advantage of the handicap. The Cubs scored one run in the first frame on a walk issued to Lefty Clark and a double by Jones.

A home run into left centerfield after Danner had tripled completed the scoring for the winners. The K of P team scored in the fourth on a home run by Arbogast, the missing man at the plate for the first time.

Lodge Teams Win

Centennial Coal enabled the Eagles to gain an even break in its two games by taking an 8 to 2 thumping from the lodge team. Three hits and two errors brought four runs in the first and four blows were good for as many runs in the third. Baumgartner pitched well for the winners.

After a setback last week the Elks team came back to down the Saratoga Grill aggregation 5 to 2 at Lincoln park. Ungo and Howison scored in the fifth on two passes and two hits.

ST. PAUL TAKES LEAD BY DOWNING BIRDS

Columbus Loses 6 to 2 Upon Return Home, Three Games Under Lights

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 18—The struggle for the American Association lead has developed into a battle royal today with St. Paul, Minneapolis and Milwaukee in that order running this a game apart.

The Saints defeated Columbus 6 to 2 yesterday and moved into first place last night when Minneapolis took a 5 to 0 beating from Toledo under the lights. Milwaukee pulled up into a menacing position by whipping Louisville 9 to 3 in another night game. Indianapolis lost a chance to make it a four club scramble by losing to Kansas City 4 to 1 in the third after-dark battle.

Howard Mills held Columbus to eight scattered hits as St. Paul used the 1934 champions as a stepping stone into first place.

Roxie Lawson gave the heavy hitting Millers only seven hits as Toledo helped put St. Paul in first place.

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

VII.—JEFFRIES VS CORBETT—1903

JIM JEFFRIES, the grizzly bear of the ring, battered the first of the scientific marvels, Gentleman Jim Corbett, into one-sided defeat when he fought him the second time at the Yosemite A. C. in San Francisco, Aug. 14, 1903.

Jeffries (at left in the photo) knocked Corbett out in 10 rounds with a terrific left to the stomach, defending the title he had won from Fitzsimmons in 11 rounds three years previously at Coney Island, where no pictures of the fight were taken for fear that the flash lamps would set the place on fire.

Where Corbett dominated the first meeting with his magnificent boxing until Jeffries overpowered him, big Jeff, the boilermaker, was in command every second of the return match. Fighting out of his famous crouch, he waded into Corbett from the first bell, concentrating on Jim's body. He lashed left and right hands to the heart that floored Jim four times, took all the speed from his legs, and left him a mark finally for the tenth round crusher.

Corbett's left hand and graceful boxing, so effective at Coney Island when Jeffries tried to box with him, meant nothing in the San Francisco battle.

Following the charging offensive he had found effective in the late rounds at Coney Island, Jeffries came up to the 10th unmarked while Corbett was almost helpless. As the boilermaker smashed his final left into Corbett's body, Tommy Ryan, chief second for the old champion, jumped into the ring as Referee Eddie Graney started counting. Technically the match ended with Corbett automatically disqualified, but he was completely knocked out by the final blow and never could have risen before 10.

Invading Ring Men Fare Poorly in Boxing Show

Invading competition in last night's boxing show almost completely collapsed against local opposition.

The Killers were unable to inflict injury, the Kayoers lacked much punch and the Toughies appeared quite lame. Added to these disappointments for the fans was the failure of boxers to push their fighting. Bouts thought by invading ringmen to be big jokes turned out to be their own downfall.

Kid Mondue knocked out Jackie Parker in the main go of six rounds after a minute and 50 seconds of the third round. K. O. Maskey of Bucyrus decisioned Killer Kain of Lima although the latter did some good leading—as well as clinching. Jack Sharboneau of Marion made Paddy Phalen of Lima look quite sick.

Kid Stumbo and Don McAninch of Marion looked better than the rest of the show as the former won by a decision from Tuffy Buskirk of Kenton and McAninch knocked out Bob Kipker of Kenton in 15 seconds with a terrific left that traveled less than 10 inches to its mark.

Billy Wallace of Marion and Young Fightner of Bucyrus fought to a draw in a slow match. Steve Barci of Bucyrus gave one of the best showings of the evenings to decision the game Jackie McLarin of Kenton.

Fans became irked by the decision of Buskirk to claim a foul by Stumbo. After an examination for a blow hit while Buskirk was on his knees the fight was resumed. An excited second caused a big disturbance at the close of the main go by unofficially throwing in a towel for Parker.

After Parker had convinced Referee Wagner that the excited one did not represent him the fight was continued.

WES FERRELL BEATS CHICAGO WHITE SOX IN 13 INNINGS, 2-1

Sewell Drops Throw at Plate, Reds Down Giants as Injuries Shelve Two

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.,
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Wes Ferrell, who once had so much trouble with his pitching arm that he gave serious consideration to converting himself into an outfielder, has already done some of the best pitching of the major league season. And it seems he has to do that even to have a chance of winning a fair share of games.

Ferrell has probably received less backing from his Red Sox teammates than any other member of the mound staff.

But he has finally come through with a pair of brilliant five-hit performances in his last two starts to win both by 2-1 scores.

Goes 13 Innings

Ferrell had to go 13 innings against the White Sox yesterday to gain the edge over a club he trimmed 10-1 the only time his teammates gave him any real hitting support. Opposed to 42-year-old Sad Sam Jones, Wes turned back two early threats to hold a 1-0 lead going into the ninth.

Then Zeke Bonura walloped his eighth home run of the season and it wasn't until the 13th that Boston could get the odd run and the pitcher had to help along with his third hit. After Babe Dahlgren smashed a double Ferrell beat out a bunt and when Luke Sewell dropped the throw to the plate after Bill Werber's grounder, Dahlgren was safe with the winning run.

The triumph enabled the Red Sox to gain a full game on the second place Cleveland Indians as well as Chicago's league leaders when Cleveland ran into its second straight defeat at the hands of the Yankees 4 to 2. Johnny Allen held the Indians well in check with six hit flinging.

Washington regained sole possession of fifth place by trimming Detroit 10-8 with a three run counter rally after the Tigers had scored seven times in the seventh. The Athletics moved past St. Louis out of the cellar by blanking the Browns 8-0 on Johnny Marcum's four hit elbowing.

Dodgers Climb

The Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League clouted out a 7 to 1 decision over the Pirates and moved into virtual tie with New York for the lead. The Giants meanwhile took a 6-2 setback at Cincinnati. Outfielder Joe Moore and Shortstop Dick Bartell of the Giants were injured.

Larry French pitched the Cubs to a neat 5-0 victory over the Phillies, granting only seven hits while his batterymate, Gabby Hartnett, battered in three runs. The Braves pelted one of the Cardinals' rookie hopefuls, Ed Heusser, for seven hits and four runs in five innings and won 7 to 1.

Pat Finnegan on Ag'in for Mat Encounter in Marion

Pat (Lord Lansdowne) Finnegan, [illegible] welterweight wrestling figure, will be on again at the Steam Shovel mat program Monday night after an absence from the local ring for more than three years. Finnegan, well known to mat followers of this district as just "Pat," will [illegible] title to Jack Reynolds [illegible] on the All Star [illegible] staged on Derby [illegible] in a peck of trouble when he rolled with Reynolds through the ropes to the floor. Finnegan had taken the first fall [illegible] but was unable to continue after the shakeup.

A graduate of Wittenberg college and a former student at Notre Dame, Finnegan has steadily climbed to the top in wrestling. He held the title for a little more than a year and attracted the largest crowds to see a mat show in either Los Angeles or Hollywood, the two coast cities noted for their large crowds. Finnegan outdrew Londos as an attraction in both cities and Londos was seen by 30,000 in Los Angeles.

Finnegan's show is confined to pre-match time. His bright cape, monocle and monniker are discarded when the scrap begins. The Irishman is one of the most aggressive grapplers in the welterweight division and a clean scrapper. Finnegan had the bad luck to break his ankle in his last match here against Henry Jones of Provo, Utah. Jones broke his opponent's ankle when he applied a toe hold while Finnegan was in the air.

Robin Reed, Gordon Arquett and Blacksmith Pedigo are among the old timers Finnegan has met in Marion. On the other half of the double main go to start at 8:30 o'clock will be Jimmy Lott and Jack Kennedy, two two-notch light heavies.

OWENS SEEKS NEW MARK IN JUMP TODAY

Four Big Ten Teams To Meet in Brilliant Event at Dyche Stadium

By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., May 18—Jesse Owens, Ohio State's spectacular Negro sophomore, resumes his quest for a new world broad jump record today in a quadrangular track and field meet involving the Buckeyes, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Chicago at Dyche Stadium.

Pop Gash, Northwestern's 60-year old Negro ground keeper, had the runway to the jumping pit in perfect condition for Owens' assault on the world mark of 26 feet 2⅛ inches held by Chuhei Nambu of Japan as well as his own American standard of 26 feet 1¾ inches.

With Owens almost certain to provide 20 points by victories in both dashes and the 220-yard low hurdles in addition to the broad jump, Ohio State figured to win the 12th renewal of the event. The Buckeye Negro however faced honest competition in the low hurdles from Phil Doherty, Northwestern sophomore who bettered 24 seconds in a dual meet last week.

The half mile run promised to be the prize event of the meet with Charles Beetham, Ohio State ace, Karl Kleinschmidt of Wisconsin, the indoor 880-yard champion, and Jack Fleming of Northwestern in the field. Don Renda, Ohio distance star, and George Farley of Northwestern were expected to produce an interesting struggle in the mile run.

SPEED QUALIFYING TRIALS WILL START TODAY AT BIG RACE

Dozen Drivers Expect to Take Test; Pole Post at Stake

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May [illegible] dozen drivers made ready today for the 500-mile automobile race.

There are 58 entries in the $100,000 classic May 30 for only the 42 [illegible].

Speed trials will be [illegible] long. The fastest car qualifying today will get the pole position regardless of the speed of later trial.

Kelly Petillo, flashy Los Angeles Italian American, was in turn today confident he [illegible] the prize position for the consecutive year. He [illegible] 119.329 miles an hour last [illegible].

Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, national driving champion and winner here in 1934, [illegible] don and Rex Mays of Los Angeles and Mauri Rose of [illegible] ton, O., also were ready for their runs.

So were Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., victor in 1928 and 1933, Ralph Hepburn and Lou Moore, both of Los Angeles, Frank Brisko of Milwaukee, Shafer of Des Moines, Gulotta of Kansas City and Miller of Detroit.

Only three gallons and one [illegible] of gasoline is allowed each car for the 25-mile qualifying. In the race itself the speedsters must cover the 500 miles using no more than 42½ gallons of gasoline, six gallons and two quarts [illegible].

Drivers say the cars are faster than ever and that the brick course is no more difficult than it has been the past years. They predict the slowest in the race will have to average 110 miles an hour as compared with 108 last year.

Cummings will drive the four-cylinder front wheel drive racer he guided to victory in [illegible]. His mechanics say improved carburetion and manifolding has increased the speed of the car that whizzed to a new track record of 104.863 miles per hour in the 500 mile race route a year ago.

Time trials will continue Sunday.

Russell D. Bath is a stellar half miler on the Michigan State college freshman track team—but no relation to Ted Bath, Spartan captain and hurdler in 1933.
